Chimflue_the company

Introduction

Since the 1980's, Chimflue has specialised in the supply, design, fabrication and installation of flue and chimney systems. We have grown our business steadily over the past few years and have developed strong relationships with our clients and our supply partners. Through these close-working relationships, we are able to understand, correctly interpret and meet the needs of our customers, enabling us to offer a consistent, high quality service.

We offer a 'supply only' service as well as a full design, fabrication and installation package for our clients – including local authorities, consulting engineers, architects, designers, and house builders. We also provide technical advice, backed-up by our knowledge of up-to-date regulations regarding the installation of flue and chimney systems within both domestic and commercial environments. We strive to achieve the highest possible standards and are accredited by bodies including SafeContractor, Hetas, NACS.

Design

Planning and system design is of critical importance to us at Chimflue. From the very start of a project, we work with our clients to ensure we provide the complete design solution to meet their needs. From our initial site survey or from receipt of a client's drawings, through to the successful completion of any project, we ensure that our client will be confident in the end result. To facilitate a rapid turn round and ensure accuracy of our installations, we use the latest AutoCad software to produce full working drawings. With our contract team of site engineers and internal contract management we will efficiently progress projects from start to finish to comply with our clients specified time scales.

Fabrication

Thriving on good planning, our fabrication team is able to accurately template, cut and form flue components to many shapes and sizes. We have the ability to fabricate many special components including insert gathers, canopies, cowls and ductwork. These bespoke components can be fabricated from details submitted by customers or alternatively our in house design team can assist in the development of a part required for a specific project.

Installation

Many of our clients prefer us to carry out the installation for them, especially when we are manufacturing to a specification. Liasing with our client, we will project-manage the installation in all its aspects, including risk assessment, liability insurance, current health and safety requirements and all work carried out by Chimflue will meet relevant British Standards where appropriate. We can provide technical solutions for the specialist areas of fan assisted, fan dilution and atmospheric applications. Our expertise also extends to applications where extraction of fumes or dust is required. Any equipment or additional services needed on site, such as scaffold, safety rails, mechanical access, electrical wiring, gas connections/commissioning and asbestos removal can be included in the quotation for the project if required.

Distribution

Chimflue is a mainline distributor for some of the largest flue product manufacturers in the UK and Europe. Our partnering with these companies allows us to offer a vast range of flue and chimney components and associated products. We keep one of the most extensive stocks of standard flue components in the UK.

Delivering nationwide as well as overseas in any consignment size. We supply fan-assisted and fan-dilution systems, flexible liner, single and twin-wall flue products, vitreous enamel flues, flues for condensing applications as well as cowls, grilles and ancillary equipment. Our stock holding and bespoke component service allows us to meet the flue and chimney requirements of our nationwide customer base.
